DETAILED ACTION

1. This Office Action is response to Applicants' Election/Restriction Requirement field on 06/28/2006 and Group IV (claims 19-21) is elected.
2. Claims 19-21 are pending in this Application.

Claim Objections

3. Claims 19 and 21 are objected to because of the following informalities: In lines 7-8 of claim 19, "a phone bookmark in a server" should replace with "the phone bookmark in the server", and

In line 5 of claim 21, "the bookmark" should replace with "the phone bookmark".

Appropriate corrections are required.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

4. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

5. A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

6. This application currently names joint inventors. In considering patentability of the claims under 35 U.S.C. 103(a), the examiner presumes that the subject matter of the various claims was commonly owned at the time any inventions covered therein were made absent any evidence to the contrary. Applicant is advised of the obligation under 37 CFR 1.56 to point out the inventor and invention dates of each claim that was not commonly owned at the time a later invention was made in order for the examiner to consider the applicability of 35 U.S.C. 103(c) and potential 35 U.S.C. 102(e), (f) or (g) prior art under 35 U.S.C. 103(a).

7. Claims 19-21 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Patent No.: US 6,405,037 issued to Rossmann in view of Patent No.: US 6,208,838 issued to Davani.

With respect to claim 19, Rossmann teaches an apparatus for accessing a phone bookmark in a server coupling a landnet to a wireless network (figs. 1 & 7, airnet network, including a mobile phone, cellular phone, item 700, server having database: col. 37, lines 60-67 and col. 38, lines 1-8; also see fig. 36, lines 42-67 and col. 37, lines 1-15), the apparatus comprising:

- a memory storing code for a client module (abstract, col. 4, lines 40-58; see figs 7-9, client module, item 702 and 901; col.37, lines 60-67);

- a display screen (figs. 1 & 7, item 105 and 705 respectively);

- a processor, coupled to the memory and the display screen, executing the code in the memory to cause the client module to (fig. 6, item 610, processor for initiating the client module: col. 20, lines 16-60):

- initiate a request to the server over the wireless network for a phone bookmark in the server, wherein the phone bookmark can be updated by a web client device coupled to the landnet (updating information by a client device: col. 10, lines 35-58 and col. 11, lines 10-22); display on the display screen the phone bookmark upon receiving the phone bookmark after the server renders the request (col. 12, lines 66-67 and col. 13, lines 1-62); and dial automatically the phone number to initiate a phone communication after a predefined key is pressed (after one key on the keypad is pressed, that is, the user presses a pre-defined/pre-determined key as automatically dialing a the phone number: col. 12, lines 65-67 and col. 13, lines 1-48).

Art Unit: 2162

Rossmann teaches a mobile phone having a display screen and this mobile phone is able to initiate a request over the Internet or WWW and automatically dialing a phone number via pressing a pre-defined key on the keypad of the mobile device. Rossmann does not clearly teach extract a phone number associated with a name from the phone bookmark when the name is selected.

However, Davani teaches retrieving a phone number storing in the phone bookmark database (col. 6, lines 63-67 and col. 7, lines 1-45).

Therefore, it would have been obvious to a person of ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to combine the teachings of Rossmann with the teachings of Davani. One having ordinary skill in the art would have found it motivated to utilize the use of retrieving information (phone number) from a phone bookmark database storing in the memory of the mobile phone as disclosed (Davani's col. 6, lines 63-67), into the system of Rossmann for the purpose of allowing a mobile user to efficiently access information residing on a mobile phone as well as on Internet server, thereby, allowing the mobile user to select any one to request access and load information over the Internet server (col. 1, lines 5-8 and 45-48, and col. 8, lines 20-28).

With respect to claim 20, Rossmann teaches wherein the processor executes the code in the memory to further cause the client module to:

display the phone number to allow a user to modify the phone number according to the geographic location of the user (col. 11, lines 10-22 and col. 19, lines 45-56).

With respect to claim 21, Rossmann teaches wherein the processor executes the code in the memory to still cause the client module to: send a new phone number to the server when the user updates the phone number being displayed (col. 19, lines 45-56); and update the bookmark with the new phone number locally (col. 9, lines 5-15 and col. 15, lines 58-67 and col. 16, lines 1-2).
